

The Briefing

November 2023

Featuring: Andrew McConnell & Troy Wheeler, Lee Atkinson,
Sophie Beaumont, Jane Godwin & Terry Denton

Dear Booksellers,

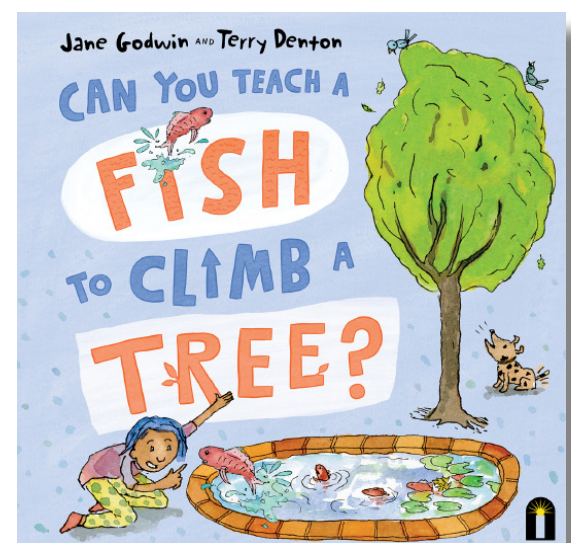

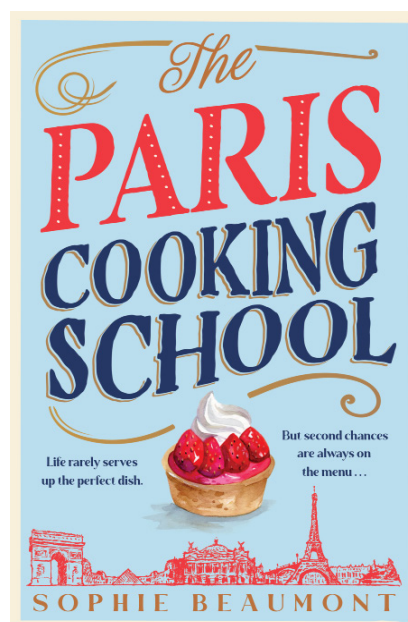

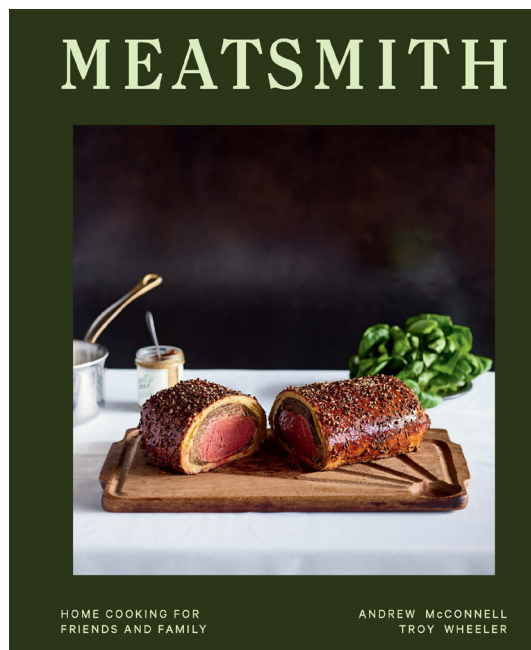

Get ready for the summer with these titles from Hardie Grant!

Acclaimed restaurateur Andrew McConnell (Gimlet) and worldclass butcher Troy Wheeler present MeatSmith, an elegant guide to classic cooking from the minds behind one of Australia's best boutique providores. And introducing the latest in the Ultimate series, Ultimate Coastal Road Trips! The perfect companion to her bestselling Ultimate Road Trips, Lee Atkinson's completely new guidebook covers 40 seaside road trips around the country, offering a wealth of detail for those planning a beach holiday. Remember to keep an eye out for 2024's Halliday Pocket Wine Companion, the must-have pocket companion to the beloved annual bible for lovers of Australian wine.

From Ultimo Press comes The Paris Cooking School by Sophie Beaumont, a delectable novel about love, hope and the consolations of the perfect strawberry tart. Gabi Picabea and Kate Evans have come from Australia to Sylvie Morel's Paris Cooking School. Both are at a crossroads, and learning to cook the French way in Paris, far away from all their troubles, seems like the perfect escape. For each of the women, that extraordinary April in Paris will bring unexpected twists and transformations that will change the course of their lives.

And from HGCP, we have the latest title from renowned author and illustrator, Jane Godwin and Terry Denton, How to Teach a Fish to Climb a Tree! This funny and thought-provoking picture book, challenges traditional expectations and celebrates individuality. Perfect for the festive season, it encourages children to embrace their unique abilities. With vibrant illustrations and a powerful message, this is a must-have book for every modern family seeking to celebrate diversity and ignite important conversations.
